Just right here
We'd best be staying,
That soon the birds
Will all be mating.
If like the birds
You'd catch a mate,
A valentine
Go use as bait.

Pirates of Penance.

Another cold wave is reported coming this way.

The board of council will meet to-morrow evening.

The steamers Andy Baum and Big Sandy passed up last night.

The steamer Telegraph passed down this morning at seven o'clock.

For printing of all kinds at low prices, call at the BULLETIN job rooms.

A little judicious advertising just now would help trade wonderfully. Suppose you try it.

Two Big Sandy and Pomeroy packets are all expected to enter their respective trades to-day.

The steamer J. C. Kerr is now running between Cincinnati and Carrollton, Ky., having quit the Ripley trade.

The Kentucky Planing Mill raised steam yesterday after a stoppage of two weeks to make needed repairs.

The Gazette and times at Bowling Green have been consolidated under the management of Mr. John B. Gaines.

An American copper of 1793, worth nearly $200 in New York last week. One of 1804 date is worth the same price.

Mr. WILLIAM THOMAS has opened a shoe shop in East Mayville. He is a good workman and worthy of the patronage of the public.

One of the surest evidences that spring is approaching, is the display of garden seeds in the windows of our groceries and drug stores.

Mr. JOHN W. WATSON, of this city, bought recently from Lewis Lebus, of Cynthiana, 230 barrels of whisky, for which he paid $13,000.

When trade is dull, then is when advertising will be found beneficial. The man who advertises is the one who achieves business success.

CHILDREN will take Balsam of Tolu and Glysterol of Tar without objection because its taste is pleasant. No other medicine is so sure a remedy for coughs.

The funeral of Mr. W. H. Cox will take place from the residence on Third street to-morrow morning at ten o'clock. Rev. C. B. Higgins will conduct the services.

The weather man of the Bourbon News remarks: Several ground hogs came out yesterday, looked at their shadows and sneaked off home without paying their subscription.

A black snake three feet long was found on the Jersey Ridge Turnpike on the first day of February by Mrs. John Baldwin, Sr., who killed it. Isn't it just a little early for snakes?

Two Mayville Musical Club will open the new opera house at Carlisle on Friday February 13th, presenting the Pirates of Penance. The people of that place have in prospect a rare musical treat.

A LITTLE child of Mr. W. H. Robb, who lives near Helena, was burned to death yesterday by his clothes taking fire at a grate. Dr. J. T. Hendrick will conduct the funeral services this afternoon from the residence.

The Bourbon News says: The roller-skating business has hardly any branches of business here—particularly the billiard and whisky saloon business. It has even effected the church contribution boxes to an alarming extent.

A LITTLE grandchild of Mr. Robert Dawson, that died at Cincinnati, was brought to this city and buried at the cemetery yesterday afternoon. One of his children, a little son, died on Monday and will be brought here this afternoon.

Mr. ROBERT L. BRUCE died at Vanceburg yesterday at the residence of Hon. H. C. Bruce, of consumption. He was a son of Capt. Thomas Bruce and at the time of his death was Mayor of Vanceburg, having been elected to that position in January last after an exciting and hotly contested race. He was twenty-four years of age, had recently been admitted to the bar of his county and was considered a promising lawyer. A wide circle of friends here and elsewhere will learn of his death with regret.

PERSONALS.

Mr. James M. Love is in the city.

Mr. James Hedlin has returned from Virginia.

Mr. A. A. Gibbons, of Dover, is prizing tobacco at Harrodsburg.

Mr. William Forman, of Sardis, is dangerously ill with paralysis.

Mr. Thomas Stockton, of Georgetown, Ky., is visiting his father, Col. J. M. Stockton.

Peter Dillon, who died recently at Flemingsburg, was the oldest citizen. He had reached the venerable age of ninety-eight.

Mr. James Fitzgerald, late of the First National Bank, has accepted a position in the office of the Mayville Coal Elevators.

Miss Katie O'Brien entertained some of her friends on Monday evening at a candy pulling. The occasion proved to be a very pleasant one.

Browning-Keith. Notwithstanding the sad surroundings the Browning-Keith wedding was a superb affair. Two of the maids of honor were dressed in pink, two in blue and two in white. The bride never looked so sweetly before and the groom so manly.

The large double parlors were filled with the special friends. The ceremony by Dr. J. A. Henderson was a condensed form of the beautiful ritual of the Methodist discipline. The ceremony was beautiful and deeply impressive. Mr. and Mrs. Browning left on the noon train for Lexington.

A Wonderful Steer. Mr. J. K. McGregor has on exhibition at the old Hemphill warehouse, on Main street, a curiosity in the way of a steer. It is six years old this coming spring and weighs four thousand two hundred and fifty pounds. To look at its back a man is compelled to stand on a chair. It is perfectly gentle, and can be handled by anyone. A person can hardly imagine an animal of this kind and it will surprise anyone who visits it. Our farmers, when in town, should call and see how steers grow in India, and then come home.

This steer will be exhibited in this city for ten days, beginning County Court day, February 9th.

Reminiscences of a Memorable Event. The pleasure seekers who are flocking to New Orleans to the great Exposition, make it a point to invest in the world renowned Louisiana State Lottery, and examine the integrity and correctness of the distribution under Generals G. T. Beauregard, of La., and Jubal A. Early, of Va. The next (the 17th) Grand Monthly Drawing will occur at noon, Feb. 10th, of which M. A. Daphin, New Orleans, La., will give any information.

That Old Torment. Although dyspepsia has its chief seat in the stomach, yet it affects the whole digestive apparatus. The liver, pancreas, and intestinal glands share in the general trouble. The whole machinery needs renovation. Brown's Iron Bitters is the article with which to do the happy work.

Mr. W. H. Eckhart, Marion, O., writes: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters for indigestion with most excellent results."

The steamer Springer has arrived at Cincinnati and will leave for New Orleans at 5 p. m. Saturday. The excursion party will leave this city at 11 a. m. Friday, by the steamer St. Lawrence.

Miss LUC POWLING, who is teaching painting in oil and lustral painting, has a good class but can take a few more pupils. Her terms are very reasonable.

"What did you bring your opera glass with you?"

"Yes, but I can't use it."

"Why not?"

"Oh, I lost my diamond rings at home."—Boston Beacon.

The first thing to be done in any private or public charity movement is to beat the newspapers to the extent of making them advertise the scheme free. After the show is over the beats will ask the same papers to publish free a card thanking the donors for their work in the cause. New Orleans Picayune.

Chicago received from licensees last year the sum of $1,600,000, an excess of $1,000,000 over any preceding year. Of the amount stated $1,400,000 came from saloon license alone, as a result of the high license law, and this represents only eight months, the law not having gone into effect until May 1.

The competent waiter never returns thanks for a tip. He sweeps it up with some other crumbs as happen to be on the tablecloth and puts it into his pocket with a nonchalance which, being interpreted into words, says: "Oh, yes; I'll take it as a gratuity, not as a tip, and I take it only to please you, not that I want it. I am too much of a gentleman to offend you by refusing your tribute to my distinguished worth."

Mrs. Winks—What queer things statistics bring out. I see that the figures gathered by the Paris authorities show that nine tenths of the male victims of cholera there were unmarried men.

Mr. Winks—I am not surprised. That proves that Koch's theory, which, being interpreted into words, says: "Oh, yes; I'll take it as a gratuity, not as a tip, and I take it only to please you, not that I want it. I am too much of a gentleman to offend you by refusing your tribute to my distinguished worth."

"That cholera germs are easily destroyed by boiling."

Mr. Winks—That's what I got to do with the immunity of married men, pray?

"They are generally kept in hot water, you know."—Philadelphia Call.

The Gas Question.

The Newport council, after taking the advice of their attorney, determined that they had a right to contract with whom they choose, looking to the welfare of the city, after the 8th day of February for lighting the city with gas electricity, and thereupon advertised for proposals. Suddenly a strange and unaccountable announcement is made that the new Mayor and City Attorney have taken the opinion from the retiring Attorney, Mr. C. J. Helm. Are these opinions in any manner by the city council brought to the last municipal election? Did the gas company secure any pledges from candidates in consideration of money expended to control the election? How does it happen that we find a director and stockholder of the gas company on the bond of the Attorney-elect?

Of this cluster of ideas are thorough in the clutches of gas monopolies, to-wit, Cincinnati and Covington. Why should Newport thrust her hand into the lion's mouth if she can legally escape.

Just as certainly as gas has superseded the tallow candle so certainly will electricity supersede the gas electric light. Cheap coal oil is attacking it in front with telling effect for indoor lighting, and electricity is dealing its death blows in the flanks for outdoor lighting.

The adoption by our corporation of electricity will be of great practical benefit to the city, inducing population, advancing the value of property and promoting the comfort of our people.

The present contract was foisted upon our city council, without notice, and it clings with tenacity to any advantage it may have gained. It has already become a potent political factor in municipal politics, its influence being discernible in many ways.

Louisville, one hundred and fifty miles further from the coal fields than Newport, has a supply of fuel from the coal at $1 per thousand feet. Our very discreet council either through fraud or ignorance, binds us to pay $1.90 for a very inferior article.

As prudent conservators of the public interest, would it not be the part of wisdom for our council to reject the contract about which there seems to be a diversity of opinion to good legal talent obtained from local prejudices, and get an opinion upon which they can rely? If we have been bound hand and foot by the stupidity of our agents, let us know it; but, if on the other hand, we have acted unwisely in the failure of property and the reckless grasp of the Gas Company, do so now, and release our people from this unreasonable contract, which otherwise will oppress us for twenty years to come.

Too Much of It.

[Detroit Free Press.]

A Woodward avenue street car driver yesterday hitched the lines to the brake and entered the car and said to a man who was deeply interested in a newspaper:

"Excuse me, but you haven't paid your fare."

"Oh—I see," stammered the man, as he hunted for some change, and after he had paid her went out to the driver and said:

"See here, sir, I don't like your way of holding me up to ridicule. Why didn't you wink at me?"

"Because you didn't look up."

"Well, as long as you knew it was a case of forgetfulness you could have passed it by."

"That was the trouble, sir. I have passed it by with you about a dozen times this last week, and I thought it was time to say something."

An Outrage.

[Kansas City.]

A Galveston merchant was in the habit of calling at the office of a local lawyer and receiving a small sum on account of former acquaintance. Last week the merchant called as usual, but the lawyer said:

"I can't assist you any longer as I've got a wife now, and need all the money I can lay my hands on."

"Well, now, that's just coming it a little too strong. Here you actually go and get married at my expense."

Cure for Piles.

Piles are frequently cured by a sense of weight in the back, loins and lower part of the abdomen, causing the patient to suppose he has some affection of the kidneys or perhaps of the stomach, etc. A moisture, like perspiration, flowing a very disagreeable odor after getting warm, is a common attendant. But this is not the case, and the cure is to the application of Dr. Hosanna's Pile Remedy. It is a simple, safe, and effective remedy, relieving the itching, and affording a permanent cure. Price 25 cents. Address Dr. Hosanna Medicine Co., Plaquemine, La. Sold by Geo. T. Wood.

BORN. In this city, February 3, 1885, to the wife of Mr. J. T. Henry, a daughter.

Dr. Hosanna.

This name is so familiar with the people throughout the United States that it is hardly necessary to state it at the originator of the famous "Dr. Hosanna's" Lung Tonic, the favorite remedy, wherever known, for consumptions, Croup, Whooping Cough, Sore Throat, and Lung. Price 25 cents and 50 cents. Sold by George T. Wood.

CAMPBELL SUSPENDED.

FINAL DECISION IN THE CELEBRATED
DISBARMENT CASE.

Findings of the Judges on All the Counts—
The Noted Criminal Lawyer Found
Guilty on the First Charge—
Muted in the Costs.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 3.—The announcement that a decision was at hand in the great disbarment case of Counselor T. C. Campbell served to pack the court room in the Albany Building with an eager throng, among whom the legal fraternity largely predominated, and when at length Judges Maxwell, Robinson and Connor took their seats the expectancy and suspense was acute, and a hush fell on the crowded court room.

Mr. Campbell took his seat at the bar, immediately confronting his judges, and listened unmoved to the reading of the decision in his case.

The charges were then read verbatim and the decision on each rendered. Below they are summarized.

The first, called the J. H. Minnemyer charge, was recited, the gist of the charge being that Campbell, by threats and promises, forced or induced Mrs. Minnemyer to pay $1,000 to Walter Gow on penalty of Minnemyer's conviction and imprisonment. It is a virtually a charge of compounding a felony. The testimony was rehearsed at length and deemed insufficient to sustain the charge, but was applied to the supplementary charge that Campbell used his official position as prosecutor to effect the release of Minnemyer and the return of his embezzled funds to Gow. Of this he was found guilty of misconduct involving moral turpitude.

The second is the Hoffman jury charge, in which a conspiracy to unlawfully influence jurors is alleged. The summary of testimony on this charge was also of great length. The suspicious matter in the whole affair, according to the court, was the fact of jurors handed to Moses, which, unexplained and obscured by Drew, was the little fire that had made a great blaze. Drew reminded the court of the man who fired the temple of Diana. His action was evidently reprehensible, but he evidently did not expect to stand a court case as he was sprung from it. But the fact does not establish a conspiracy. It was, however, censurable in Campbell that he should enter a saloon with two jurors, and that he should have them there. The court found the charge not sustained.

Charge third alleges that Campbell made affidavit that Kline, one of the jurors in the Hoffman case, was not a client of his. The testimony did not satisfy the court that Campbell had sworn falsely, but in denying the bill for services introduced in the case he had done more to affect his credibility than by anything else. Therefore, he had no doubt that the bill was genuine and was sustained.

The fourth charge alleges that Campbell, with a view to defraud the United States, by representing that one Thomas Mead was not the Thomas Mead who had gone on the forfeited recognizance of one William Manning. The testimony narrowed down to a single statement by Campbell that Mead was not the man, and that was in a measure explained by other testimony that it was a simple off-hand statement of a rumor. This was not sustained.

The sixth charge alleges that Campbell suborned Jacob Pfeffer to testify falsely that a note was made on the 19th of November, 1878, some time before, when in fact it was made during a trial for use in a whisky suit against one Deffenbach, the following March. Nearly an hour was expended in sunning up the testimony under this charge. The conclusion arrived at was that neither Pfeffer nor Deffenbach could be believed on oath, that their statements are conflicting, and that in fact, Deffenbach nor anybody who heard of the charge against Campbell, believed it. It would not be just to the respondent nor safe to the bar to find respondent guilty.

The eighth charge alleges under several counts that Campbell did unlawfully endeavor to have his (1) name and associates, disbarred and clients, among others He had Gab, S. A. Phillips and C. T. Dollahan, impudently as jurors, for reward. The truth or falsity of the count resting upon the testimony of Gab as against that of Campbell, supported by Chas. H. Davis. It was found insufficient to sustain it. The conclusion was, however, reached that Phillips was a client of Campbell's, but not such an one as would be included within his promise to the court to designate any jurymen called who might be his client, but yet one whom as an honorable attorney he should have not permitted to sit upon the jury.

The court was of the opinion that Dollahan answered evasively in regard to his relations to Campbell, but that the relations between him and Campbell were not of a character to warrant the court in doing more than stating that Campbell's action was not up to the standard of an honorable attorney. The charge was not sustained.

The court found on the whole case the respondent guilty as follows: We find the defendant guilty on the first charge, but in view of the fact that it extends into the remote past, when the respondent was a young practitioner, the court is disposed to leniency, and sentence him to the payment of the costs of the trial and ten days' suspension.

Judge Maxwell dissented from the opinion of the majority of the court. He agreed with their summary of testimony, but not in the conclusion at which they arrived.

As to last sentence fell from the lips of Judge Maxwell. Mr. Morrill spoke to his feet and asked a stay of execution till counsel for defense could prepare a bill of exceptions and file a petition in error to the supreme court.

Campbell, his face white with excitement, blazed between his teeth to Morrill, his counsel: "This verdict will stand against me all my life. I don't care if it is not sustained by the evidence."

Judge Maxwell interrupted Morrill to say that the term of the court will expire with the week, and that the suspension could not therefore, exceed that limit.

Mr. Morrill—Well, we must have time to prepare our bill and file our petition, should we desire to do so.

Campbell—We do desire it.

Morrill—We desire a stay of execution. The court certainly can order it.

Judge Maxwell—We desire time to consult as to our powers in the premises. We can do this. We will delay the entry for one day. This was agreed to.
